STRONG FURNITURE

For many families caring for a child or relative with special needs, furniture that is not easily broken is essential. For some people who are on the autistic spectrum or who present with challenging behaviour, a safe home environment is important. Furniture, such as beds and cupboards, which are durable and safe can make a big difference for families.

There are manufacturers who supply furniture which is designed to be robust. This includes beds, cupboards, wardrobes, tables, seating and desks. They may also offer a bespoke service. This type of furniture can be expensive so you might want to consider applying for a grant or funding to help purchase the items your family needs.

Suppliers and Manufacturers

Fledglings cannot recommend one supplier over another, there are other furniture manufacturers who may supply similar products. We recommended that you research further before choosing the best products for you.
